15. How long do cookies last?

16. When a web server sends a cookie, it asks your browser to keep that particular cookie until a certain date and time. These dates can be:

17. Some date in the future – which might be a few minutes or a few hours from now (to track something like your shopping cart in an online store). The cookie might expire many years in the future, to keep track of your browser for a long time.

18. When you close your browser – this is called a session cookie, the next time you start your browser these will have vanished.

19. Some date in the past – this is how the server asks a browser to remove a previously-stored cookie.

20. Our own cookies

21. We use cookies to make our website work including remembering if you have accepted our terms and conditions.

22. There is no way to prevent these cookies being set other than to not use our site.

23. Anonymous visitor statistics cookies

24. We use cookies to compile visitor statistics such as how many people have visited our website, what type of technology they are using, how long they spend on the site, what page they look at, etc. This helps us to continuously improve our website. These analytics programs also tell us, on an anonymous basis, how people reached this site (e.g. from a search engine) and whether they have been here before, helping us to develop our services for you. Our site uses the following analytics programs: Google Analytics and Sage Analytics.

25. Social website cookies

26. So you can easily 'Like' or 'Share' our content on social network sites, we have sharing buttons on our site.

27. The privacy implications on this will vary from social network to social network and will be dependent on the privacy settings you have chosen on these networks.

28. Turning cookies off

29. You can usually switch cookies off by adjusting your browser settings to stop it from accepting cookies. Doing so, however, will likely limit the functionality of ours and a large proportion of the world's websites as cookies are a standard part of most modern websites.
